Stakeholder session on IAIS supporting material

From the Secretary General

As we enter June and are in the midst of preparing for our Annual Global Seminar, when we typically welcome Members and Stakeholders for a series of discussions and networking, I am reminded of last year's Global Seminar. At the time, we waited until the last possible moment to push it to a virtual format, hoping through April and May that we might still be able to meet in person in Seattle.

From my time as a regulator in South Africa, I know that the IAIS milestone meetings are both important and appreciated. They are an opportunity to come together to meet, have fantastic exchanges and build social capital and trust – two things decidedly essential to collaboration and cooperation amongst international supervisors and insurance sector stakeholders.

In 2020, despite our optimism, an in-person meeting was not in the cards. Now, a year has passed, and again we will host a virtual meeting. Yet, during the course of the past year, we have made great efforts to keep up the conversations, maintain the collaboration and address the demands of the pandemic, while also becoming adept at doing it all virtually.

We will focus on two main themes at the upcoming Global Seminar: our work on- and in response to Covid-19, drawing out early lessons; and looking forward with our 2021-2022 IAIS Roadmap. This reflects the intense work we invested since early 2020 – stepping up to the challenge of protecting policyholders and maintaining global financial stability in light of a worldwide crisis, while also addressing emerging trends and risks which, though mostly anticipated, suddenly called for accelerated attention as a result of the crisis.

Understanding the lessons from the pandemic will put us on a good path for the future, just as the work since the 2008 financial crisis helped steer our course. Finalising reforms resulting from the global financial crisis has always been a priority, and they have stood us in good stead. Without the huge progress we have made in areas such as ComFrame, the Holistic Framework and the Insurance Capital Standard (ICS), we would not have been able, as a global community, to monitor and have a collective discussions about the risks from Covid-19 in the way that we did.

As we begin to make progress, albeit unevenly across regions, in emerging from the pandemic, I look forward to turning more attention to those emerging risks that have become more prominent in the past year. The themes on our agenda are as diverse as our membership. We will be progressing work on protection gap issues (pandemic and beyond), conduct and culture, FinTech, cyber risk, diversity and inclusion and, of course, continuing our spearheading work on addressing climate change.

We will already be starting on our next Roadmap process (for 2022-2023) at our upcoming Executive Committee meetings in June to define priority projects. I look forward to the input from stakeholders during the Global Seminar and our multiple additional touchpoints as an important part of this process.

Jonathan Dixon, Secretary General

In Focus...

The IAIS and A2ii – building a long term sustainable partnership to advance financial inclusion

Insurance can make the difference between individuals or families moving out of poverty or remaining in a situation of economic insecurity. By increasing access to insurance products and services for segments of the population traditionally underserved by formal financial services, those most vulnerable gain tools to manage their risks and the broader economy becomes more resilient to shocks and disruptions. The Covid-19 pandemic has been a stark reminder that unexpected financial shocks can set back development progress – the World Bank estimates that Covid-19 will lead to over 100 million new poor.

The Covid-19 pandemic has been a stark reminder that unexpected financial shocks can set back development progress – the World Bank estimates that Covid-19 will lead to over 100 million new poor.

The IAIS recognises that insurance supervisors can help create the enabling conditions for increased access to insurance. Through regulatory and policy initiatives, supervisors can ensure that their insurance market can offer the necessary range and diversity of products and services to meet the needs of low income and traditionally underserved segments of the market.

As a broad, inclusive and member-driven organisation, the IAIS has a long-standing commitment to increasing financial inclusion and access to insurance. To maximise the benefit of financial inclusion, it is critically important that jurisdictions have in place sound regulatory and supervisory frameworks consistent with international insurance standards. However, it is clear that many supervisors, especially in emerging and developing market jurisdictions, face challenges in implementing regulatory and supervisory frameworks consistent with international insurance standards, while also balancing the role they can play in advancing financial inclusion.

Through regulatory and policy initiatives, supervisors can ensure that their insurance market can offer the necessary range and diversity of products and services to meet the needs of low income and traditionally underserved segments of the market.

The IAIS began its journey on how, as an international standard-setting body, we could address this challenge in 2006 when we joined forces with the Consultative Group to Assist the Poor (CGAP) to establish the IAIS-CGAP Joint Working Group on Microinsurance (JWG). The JWG helped lay the groundwork for the establishment of the Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii) in 2009 and the IAIS' Financial Inclusion Working Group in 2012 (which evolved into the Financial Inclusion Forum in 2020).

The IAIS – A2ii partnership

The A2ii is a multi-stakeholder partnership between the IAIS, international development agencies and donor organisations, including the international development arms of the German (BMZ) and Dutch (DGIS) governments. Since its establishment, the aim of the A2ii was straightforward: work directly with supervisors to deepen understanding of the supervisor's role in supporting access to, and usage of, insurance for low-income and other excluded populations, while meeting the IAIS standards. While this aim remains, the A2ii's activities have evolved over the past decade – moving from a strong focus on inclusive insurance regulatory frameworks towards demand-driven capacity building for insurance supervisors seeking to implement such frameworks in their jurisdictions successfully.

The A2ii's governance reflects the closeness of the IAIS-A2ii partnership. IAIS Member supervisors have a majority position in the Initiative's key decision-making bodies – the Governing Council and the Executive Committee, which provides the possibility to shape the A2ii's strategy and oversee its activities and budget. At an activity level, the A2ii and the IAIS consult on their respective work plans and collaborate on several capacity-building initiatives.

Looking to the future – a sustainable partnership

The A2ii was established as a short-term project hosted by the German Development Agency (GIZ). It has become clear, however, that while significant progress has been made over the past twelve years in addressing the challenges faced by supervisors, the demand and the need for the support that the A2ii provides to supervisors remains.

Further, the IAIS envisions a significant and lasting role for the A2ii. The pivot to implementation, outlined in our 2020-2024 Strategic Plan, will build on the Member-driven regional implementation strategies and platforms for peer-to-peer learning that the IAIS and A2ii have worked cooperatively to build. We also envisage a key role for the A2ii in supporting supervisors dealing with the challenges arising from the Covid-19 pandemic, particularly in responding to the needs of those who were disproportionately affected, including women, informal workers and Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs). In addition, our work on innovative ways to deal with the increasing impact of climate risks and digitalisation, two topics of significant relevance and importance to supervisors from developing economies, will remain strong focus areas.

When they met in March 2021, all A2ii Executive Committee members, including core funders BMZ and DGIS, recognised that the needs of the supervisory community remain and that the strategic partnership with the IAIS provides a good foundation from which to explore how to transition the A2ii to a more sustainable and long-term setup. Such a long-term setup will ensure the continued viability of the A2ii as a resource for the supervisory community.

As the main beneficiary of the current and future A2ii, the IAIS and its Members have a critical voice in supporting this transition process. Against this background, A2ii's Executive Committee and Secretariat, with input from the IAIS Secretariat, have begun considering the key factors supporting this transition and exploring different options for how a long-term, sustainable A2ii will look. While challenging in terms of complexity, it is an incredible opportunity to transition the A2ii to an organisation whose activities will benefit supervisors and society for many years to come.

Publication of Application Paper on the Supervision of Climate-related Risks in the Insurance Sector

On 25 May, the IAIS in partnership with the United Nations-convened Sustainable Insurance Forum (SIF) published an “Application Paper on the Supervision of Climate-related Risks in the Insurance Sector”.

The Paper, the first of its kind by a global standard-setting body, provides insurance supervisors with concrete tools to further strengthen their efforts in assessing and addressing risks to the insurance sector from climate change. It also sets out recommendations and examples of good practice consistent with the Insurance Core Principles (ICPs). With this publication, the IAIS and SIF aim to promote a globally consistent approach to the supervision of climate-related risks.

For more background on the development of the Paper, and the partnership with the SIF, see the InFocus Article in the Newsletter from October 2020.

The publication of the Application Paper followed a 90-day consultation period where 25 stakeholders and Members gave valuable input resulting in various improvements to the draft Paper.

Interested stakeholders are invited to a webinar providing more background on the Paper and a question and answer session on 9 June. More information and a registration link can be found here.

Completion of key milestone in Aggregation Method comparability assessment project

The IAIS has progressed its work on the comparability assessment project – an initiative that will ascertain whether the Aggregation Method (AM) provides comparable outcomes to the ICS. The definition of comparable outcomes and the high-level principles to inform the development of the comparability criteria have been finalised following public consultation and the resolution of comments, published on 4 May 2021, which marks an important step in the comparability assessment project.

The IAIS public consultation on the draft definition of comparable outcomes and high-level principles concluded in January 2021. Based on review of the consultation feedback, there was strong agreement among IAIS Members to retain, without changes, the draft definition of comparable outcomes and high-level principles to inform the development of the criteria. At the same time, the IAIS recognises that there were many comments and questions in the feedback that were helpful in identifying areas to provide greater clarity of terminology and interpretation within the criteria.

Work on the draft assessment criteria is now underway, informed by the high-level principles and the consultation feedback.

Announcing Public Consultation on draft revised Application Paper on Combating Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing

On 18 May 2021, the IAIS launched a public consultation on the draft revision of the “Application Paper on Combating Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing” (“Paper”).

The Paper aims to provide additional guidance regarding money laundering and terrorist financing risks affecting the insurance industry. Initially published in October 2013, it was primarily based on the then-current version of ICP 22 (Anti-Money Laundering and Combating the Financing of Terrorism) and on the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) Recommendations, as revised in 2012.

Following various updates of the FATF Recommendations in recent years and publication, in 2018, of the revised FATF Guidance for a Risk-Based Approach in the Life Insurance Sector, the IAIS revised ICP 22 in November 2019. In light of these developments, the IAIS has prepared a revision of the Paper, which includes updates to align terminology and ensure consistency with FATF Recommendations, as well as new guidance on several elements.

A public background session on the draft revised Application Paper will be held on 2 June 13.00-14.00 CEST. For more information click here.

Feedback on this revision is invited by 17 July 2021 24:00 CEST. To access the document and submit comments, please click here.

Targeted Jurisdictional Assessments (TJAs) progressing on schedule

The targeted jurisdictional assessments (TJAs) of the Holistic Framework (HF) supervisory material are moving forward as planned.

In Q1 2021, the thematic cycle questionnaires, designed to test whether the implementation efforts achieve the objectives of the HF, were approved by the IAIS’ Executive Committee. They were then launched to the participating jurisdictions (see April Newsletter) in a staggered approach from end-March to mid-May 2021.

Expert Teams have now started their off-site/desk work, with a focus on the following thematic areas:

- The role of the supervisor;

- The identification of the Internationally Active Insurance Groups (IAIGs); and
- Macroprudential supervision.

The analysis of responses to the thematic questionnaires is scheduled to be finalised by the end of Q3 2021. Subsequently, each of the ten participating jurisdictions will be subject to an on-site assessment.

A2ii-IAIS Public Dialogue on Women's Access to Insurance | 27 May

The A2ii and IAIS welcomed nearly 100 participants during the Public Dialogue on Women's Access to Insurance. The dialogue was moderated by Suzette Vogelsang, Head of Banking and Insurance at the South Africa Reserve Bank (SARB).

Katherine Miles, A2ii consultant and technical expert on women's financial inclusion, presented insights from the upcoming A2ii report on "The Role of Insurance Supervisors in Boosting Women's Access to Insurance". Her presentation covered how the insurance sector and regulatory approaches can help increase women's access to insurance, the current status of women's access to insurance, and the particular need for data on supply and demand. She highlighted how gender-diverse leadership in insurers can improve performance – both in terms of targeting women, as well as productivity and recommendations that can facilitate better access to high quality insurance for women.

A panel discussion followed, featuring Susan Neely, President and CEO of the American Council of Life Insurers (ACLI); Renu Audit, Director of Authorisation and Supervision, at the Financial Services Commission (FSC) Mauritius, and Shree Kant Kumar, CEO of VimoSEWA, an insurance co-operative that provides financial protection to self-employed women and their families. The discussion began with an overview of the critical barriers limiting women's access to financial services and insurance. VimoSEWA shared their experience in India and how they have addressed these barriers, while FSC Mauritius touched on their work in promoting gender equity at a national level in Mauritius, including supervisory challenges and opportunities. The regulator is also playing a broader role in fostering access to insurance for women through financial education initiatives and increasing the composition of women within the labour force at the FSC. In terms of global efforts, ACLI emphasised the recently launched B20 special initiative on Women's Empowerment and what it seeks to achieve in addressing challenges that women face and enabling their access to financial services. To wrap up, all speakers shared their insights on how the insurance sector can leverage on various digitalisation efforts to address traditional barriers that hinder access to insurance for women.

Keep an eye on the A2ii's Knowledge Hub here where A2ii's report on "The Role of Insurance Supervisors in Boosting Women's Access to Insurance" will soon be published. The recording of this Public Dialogue is available on the A2ii website and their YouTube channel.

NAIC International Forum “fireside chat” | 25 May

Vicky Saporta and Jonathan Dixon took part in a fireside chat with David Altmaier, President of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) and Florida Insurance Commissioner, on 25 May. They answered questions on a range of issues, including the impact of Covid-19, climate risk, FinTech, diversity and inclusion and implementation of the ICS and the Holistic Framework.

A sampling of the discussion includes:

- Asked about the impact of the pandemic on insurance supervisors, Vicky said that the crisis highlighted the tangible benefits of cooperation and collaboration between insurance supervisors internationally. Vicky also set out the benefits of the information received as part of the Global Monitoring Exercise (GME), which gave supervisors a clear understanding of the impact of the crisis on insurers.
- Jonathan shared details about the IAIS' work on FinTech. He noted that while technological innovation has the potential to change the insurance landscape, it will also heighten existing risks. He set out the IAIS' work to support supervisors to enable this digital transformation in a meaningful and responsible way – for example, by ensuring that supervisors have the appropriate set of “digital skills” and supervisory tools to respond to the increasing pace of digitalisation currently being experienced by the sector.

Forums

New* Newsletter section for IAIS Forums

We are pleased to share with you this new section of our Newsletter, focusing on the innovative work of IAIS Forums. Forums are an ongoing and flexible platform for technical experts to share insights and discuss developments in a specific area relevant for insurance supervision and regulation, including but not limited to supervisory practices, cross-cutting topics, and emerging trends. Forums are semi-permanent in nature and are characterised by offering innovative methods for Members to engage in IAIS work.

Financial Inclusion Forum | 18 March

Co-Secretariat: IAIS and A2ii

The Financial Inclusion Forum (FIF) held its first plenary meeting on 18 March 2021. The Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii) set the scene by presenting a retrospective of 16 years of inclusive insurance regulation, global standards and emerging lessons. 32 participants came together to discuss the presentation and the impact of inclusive insurance regulations on their jurisdictions.

The FIF brings together a group of insurance supervisors and international organisations to share good supervisory practices and discuss issues, trends and opportunities impacting financial inclusion on insurance. The FIF provides a platform for peer learning and advancing knowledge production in inclusive insurance at the IAIS. It also helps communicate and advocate for the need for and relevance of inclusive insurance at the policymaker and international development levels.

The first plenary was preceded by a series of preparatory meetings during 2020, the approval of the work programme and operational guidelines by FIF members in January 2021, and the appointment of Mr Tomas Soley (SUGESE, Costa Rica) as Chair in March 2021. The next plenary meeting will take place on 1 July 2021 and will deal with “Microinsurance frameworks and proportionality”.

iii-lab Second international process | March-May

Despite the continued Covid-19 restrictions, the second international process of the iii-lab has made fruitful progress. Each of the four country teams hosted a learning journey, inviting their peers to virtually visit their countries and learn more about local innovations not only from the insurance world. In between the sessions the teams have been diligently working to further develop their prototypes, choosing to develop solutions based on issues facing the insurance market in their jurisdictions.

Argentina's prototype focuses on raising insurance awareness and addressing cultural barriers. Their prototype involves all insurance companies working together on a social media campaign to inform the public about insurance, using tools such as storytelling and gamification.

One of India's groups is working on awareness as well; their solution proposes working with caller tunes so that people hear a message about insurance while waiting for their phone call to be answered. India's second sub-team is developing a combi-product covering multiple risks, addressing the barrier of managing multiple products and receiving quality servicing. The prototype would entail a one-stop-shop and robust use of technology.

The Moroccan team wanted to address high costs of health services in their country and developed a solution to utilise mobile phones to offer management of a minimum insurance coverage, including access to doctors through WhatsApp and lower, negotiated prices for medical services among other services.

Team Rwanda is addressing the lack of trust and information in the insurance industry, as well as a lack of products which address the needs of the population. They are using platforms like the radio, Facebook, and Twitter to raise awareness and receive feedback on customers' needs in order to design better insurance products.

On 6 May, the teams' hard work on their prototypes culminated during the pitching session. They presented an elevator pitch of their prototypes to a panel of three experts: Natalia Escobar-Mejia, Senior Policy Advisor at the IAIS, Martin Mayer, co-founder of Romeo, and Emmanuel Mokobi, CEO of Prudential Life Insurance Ghana. The panel observed the teams' pitches and after a round of open questions, they provided valuable feedback and suggestions which the teams are using to move their prototypes forward.

About the IAIS

The International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) is a voluntary membership organisation of insurance supervisors and regulators from more than 200 jurisdictions. The mission of the IAIS is to promote effective and globally consistent supervision of the insurance industry in order to develop and maintain fair, safe and stable insurance markets for the benefit and protection of policyholders and to contribute to global financial stability.

Established in 1994, the IAIS is the international standard setting body responsible for developing principles, standards and other supporting material for the supervision of the insurance sector and assisting in their implementation. The IAIS also provides a forum for Members to share their experiences and understanding of insurance supervision and insurance markets.

The IAIS coordinates its work with other international financial policymakers and associations of supervisors or regulators, and assists in shaping financial systems globally. In particular, the IAIS is a member of the Financial Stability Board (FSB), member of the Standards Advisory Council of the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and partner in the Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii). In recognition of its collective expertise, the IAIS also is routinely called upon by the G20 leaders and other international standard-setting bodies for input on insurance issues as well as on issues related to the regulation and supervision of the global financial sector.
