From the Secretary General

From Risk Management to Crisis Management

Nearly ten years has passed since the global financial crisis. Thanks to the considerable reforms undertaken in response to the crisis, the financial system is now much more stable and solid. There is a substantial capital buffer as well as liquidity in the banking sector. Regulation of derivatives is much better and the monitoring system for shadow banking is generally solid.

In the insurance sector, the IAIS has developed and is periodically updating an assessment methodology for identifying Global Systemically Important Insurers (G-SIIs), applying that methodology in making recommendations to the Financial Stability Board and annually reviewing the list of identified G-SIIs. The IAIS has also developed policy measures for G-SIIs—namely, higher loss absorbency standards. In short, the IAIS has enhanced its approach to systemic risk and, in doing so, has played a key role in strengthening global financial systems.

However, is the world financial system safer today than it was before the crisis? Has enough been done? After all, new threats have emerged. Government debt across the world's major economies has increased substantially since the financial crisis. In the event of a new crisis, there is considerably less room for fiscal policy to operate. In addition, because of the low or negative interest rate environment, monetary policy options are also much more limited.

As history has shown, financial crises can come at any time. Knowing this, it is imperative that we are prepared when that day arrives. To be prepared, there must be a global crisis management policy. What the IAIS and other organisations have achieved for effective risk management is remarkable. However, risk management is different from crisis management. Looking ahead, crisis management will demand more attention.

In Focus...*IFRS 17 (Insurance Contracts)

On 18 May, the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) issued International Financial Reporting Standard (IFRS) 17. For jurisdictions following IASB standards, IFRS 17 provides a common approach to accounting for insurance contracts.

IFRS 17 replaces IFRS 4. The IASB issued IFRS 4 in 2004 as an interim standard. IFRS 17 effectively allows for continuation of the different local insurance accounting practices existing across the various jurisdictions adopting IFRS. Of note: while the U.S. Financial Accounting Standards Board has not adopted IFRS, it is considering significant changes to U.S. GAAP for long-duration insurance contracts (link).

Understanding the Requirements of IFRS 17

Unlike IFRS 4, IFRS 17 provides a comprehensive model for accounting for insurance contracts. There is a fair amount of complexity within the IFRS 17 requirements. Under IFRS 17, insurance contracts will be valued using updated assumptions that are consistent with financial market variables, where relevant. The core requirement is that insurance contracts be measured as the sum of the present value of probability-weighted expected cash flows, an explicit risk adjustment for insurance risk, and a contractual service margin representing unearned profit from the contracts. This approach is modified for insurance contracts with direct participation features, reinsurance contracts held, and investment contracts with discretionary participation features. IFRS 17 also includes an optional simplification, the premium allocation approach, which may be possible to use for insurance contracts with a coverage period of one year or less.

In some IFRS-based jurisdictions, implementing IFRS 17 will require insurers to make very substantial changes to the way in which they currently account for their insurance contracts. This could have major implications for insurers beyond just financial reporting considerations. IFRS 17 is expected to result in significantly greater comparability of financial reporting among insurers in different IFRS-based jurisdictions. Since IFRS 17 is principles-based and allows for choices among different accounting policy options, the way in which different insurers implement the standard will impact comparability. This will be offset by the extensive IFRS 17 disclosure requirements for the specific approaches used.

IFRS 17 has a 2021 mandatory effective implementation date, with early adoption permitted. However, this is subject to the relevant endorsement or adoption procedures in IFRS jurisdictions.

Considerations for Insurance Regulators

IFRS 17 is a giant step towards the global convergence of insurance accounting. Greater consistency and comparability of insurer financial reporting under IFRS 17 may result in more effective market discipline and have a greater impact on financial stability. In its 17 July press release (link), the Financial Stability Board welcomed IFRS 17 and encouraged broad efforts to support its consistent and practical application.

“...the FSB encourages firms to start the implementation efforts as soon as possible, and to engage in open dialogue with the IASB on the ways in which the standard’s application can generate the most relevant information. Insurance regulators should be part of this dialogue, and may consider how best to support consistent and practical application of the standard”.

FSB Press Release (17 July 2017)

---

The IAIS is currently considering the possible implications of IFRS 17 on its work plans, including how best to support its effective implementation and IAIS work on a global insurance capital standard (ICS). Watch this space for more information.

Additional Information

The IASB website provides a wealth of information for understanding IFRS 17 requirements (link). To support the implementation of IFRS 17, the IASB will also constitute a Transition Resource Group largely comprised of financial statement preparers, auditors, and regulators.

Also, at the IAIS Global Seminar in June, Darrel Scott (Member of IASB) and Izabela Ruta (Technical Manager, IASB) provided an IFRS 17 overview—the presentation and video is available here.

News Updates

Supervisory Capacity Building Programme

A supervisory capacity building programme focused on developing actuarial capacity among insurance supervisors was held in Beijing and Chongli, in the Peoples Republic of China, over 17-21 July 2017. It addressed both the actuarial services delivered to companies and supervisors and how supervisors can use the outcomes from these services. The context was prudential supervision and risk management of insurers.

The programme was co-organised by the Asian Development Bank (ADB), the IAIS and the Asian Forum of Insurance Regulators (AFIR). It was hosted by the China Insurance Regulatory Commission (CIRC). The International Actuarial Association (IAA) and the China Association of Actuaries were partners in the programme. Vice Chairman Chen Wenhui of the CIRC opened the programme and Director General Jiang Bo of the CIRC closed it. This is the largest training programme conducted under the ADB's three-year technical assistance programme "Thematic Self-Assessment and Peer Review of IAIS Insurance Core Principles and Standards for Asia and the Pacific".

Participant feedback shows a high level of satisfaction with the programme content and organisation. As a result of attending this programme, many participants indicated they intend to initiate new activities in their work when they return to their agency.

A web page containing presentations, the programme case study and other material will be posted on the AFIR website (www.afirweb.org). A web-based chat group has been established for programme participants and faculty to support ongoing networking and discussion. A programme handbook summarising main points, providing some additional references, and addressing questions that may arise for supervisors is scheduled to be completed by the end of August.

Faculty were Arup Chatterjee (ADB), Su Hoong Chang (Monetary Authority of Singapore), Jules Gribble (IAIS), Shu-yen Liu (PwC), Herve Odjo (ADB), Fred Rowley (IAA Past President), and Rodolfo Wehrhahn (ADB). For further information, please contact Jules Gribble at jules.gribble@bis.org.

Recent Events

AAISA-IAIS-A2ii Meeting for Insurance Supervisors in Africa, 26-27 July 2017

Janice Angove, A2ii Sub-Saharan African regional coordinator, supported the General Assembly meeting of the Association of African Insurance Supervisory Authorities (AAISA) in Pretoria, South Africa, hosted by The Financial Services Board. Representatives of the AAISA secretariat and twenty-three delegates from supervisors across Sub-Saharan Africa participated in this meeting.

Participants discussed the articles in the proposed AAISA Constitution, the work plan and the budget for 2017-2018. The General Assembly adopted the AAISA Constitution and the budget for membership fees. The General Assembly also expressed appreciation to the Government of Cameroon for its support in setting up the AAISA headquarters in Yaoundé.

The A2ii provided supervisors with an overview of the draft regional implementation plan and, in particular, the results of its work to identify capacity building needs and priorities. Participants were given an opportunity to give input on the overall objectives of the regional implementation plan and priority themes and topics for capacity building activities for the A2ii in Sub-Saharan Africa in 2018.

Conor Donaldson of the IAIS provided an update on upcoming IAIS papers and assessment and implementation activities, including the upcoming self-assessment review on inclusive insurance. During the discussion, the importance of involvement by supervisors in Sub-Saharan Africa in the activities supported by the IAIS was emphasised as was the continued commitment of the IAIS and A2ii to support supervisors in Sub-Saharan Africa in developing capacity.

23rd A2ii-IAIS Consultation Call, 20 July 2017

Fifty-three supervisors from Latin America, Asia Pacific, and African countries participated in the 23rd A2ii-IAIS Consultation Call on “Proportionate approaches to disclosure of information” held on 20 July 2017. The call examined practical aspects of proportional disclosure regulation and how an approach encouraging the industry to offer inclusive insurance while protecting the more vulnerable inclusive insurance consumer can be achieved.

This topic leveraged the lessons learned from the recent A2ii study commissioned by the IAIS, entitled “Proportionality in practice: Disclosure of information”.

About the IAIS

The International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) is a voluntary membership organisation of insurance supervisors and regulators from more than 200 jurisdictions. The mission of the IAIS is to promote effective and globally consistent supervision of the insurance industry in order to develop and maintain fair, safe and stable insurance markets for the benefit and protection of policyholders and to contribute to global financial stability.

Established in 1994, the IAIS is the international standard setting body responsible for developing principles, standards and other supporting material for the supervision of the insurance sector and assisting in their implementation. The IAIS also provides a forum for Members to share their experiences and understanding of insurance supervision and insurance markets.

The IAIS coordinates its work with other international financial policymakers and associations of supervisors or regulators, and assists in shaping financial systems globally. In particular, the IAIS is a member of the Financial Stability Board (FSB), member of the Standards Advisory Council of the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and partner in the Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii). In recognition of its collective expertise, the IAIS also is routinely called upon by the G20 leaders and other international standard setting bodies for input on insurance issues as well as on issues related to the regulation and supervision of the global financial sector.
