From the Secretary General

With less than two weeks to go before the IAIS committee meetings and Global Seminar, the Secretariat is currently focused on the important issues we will discuss in Dubrovnik. Since we last met in person more than two years ago, the global insurance supervisory community has risen to the unprecedented challenges of maintaining financial stability and policyholder protection in the face of a worldwide pandemic and the impact of a war in Europe.

Panel discussions at the Global Seminar will cover some of the key challenges facing supervisors and insurers as we seek to maintain the resilience of the sector.

Our panels will start with an important discussion on inclusive insurance, at a time when many households and businesses are increasingly vulnerable. It will examine how inclusive insurance can help address inequality and promote sustainable development. The panel will discuss innovative solutions to address protection gaps and changing customer needs in a post-pandemic world.

Next will be a deep dive to consider insurance supervisors' practices on climate risk scenario analysis, with a focus on the steps the IAIS is taking to support supervisory capacity building and collaboration. The panel will touch on the importance of data availability for effective analysis and how this informs the climate data being gathered as part of the IAIS' annual Global Monitoring Exercise.

At a time of increasing cyber risks, we will bring together a panel to consider the IAIS' work on operational risks, cyber resilience and cyber underwriting. This includes the IAIS' work on assessing global cyber risk data for this year's Global Insurance Market Report special topic edition.

The pandemic highlighted the real benefit of the Holistic Framework that was agreed just months before the outbreak of the first cases of Covid-19. This panel will discuss implementation of the Holistic Framework's key elements of risk monitoring and supervisory response, including views on the effectiveness of supervisory measures in making the insurance sector more resilient.

The Global Seminar will close with a progress update on the finalisation of the Insurance Capital Standard and draft criteria by which to assess whether an Aggregation Method provides comparable outcomes.

For those unable to attend in person, recordings from all of the events, including our Town Hall question and answer session, will be published on our website in the weeks following the event. Also look out for updates on our LinkedIn channel.

I look forward to seeing many of you in Dubrovnik!

Calendar Notes

The IAIS' Holistic Framework is designed to assess and mitigate systemic risk in the global insurance sector. Nearly three years since the Framework was launched and in advance of a review by the Financial Stability Board on the future of the identification of Global Systemically Important Insurers, the IAIS will hold a virtual public roundtable on the implementation of the Holistic Framework from 13.00-15.30 CEST on Tuesday 19 July.

In Focus

IAIS publishes Year in Review 2021

The IAIS Year in Review 2021 presents an overview of progress and key achievements of 2021 amid the continued challenges of the Covid-19 pandemic.

The report outlines the work of IAIS committees, working groups, task forces and forums in the areas of:

- Assessing and responding to global market trends;
- Standard setting;
- Sharing supervisory practices and issues; and
- Assessing and promoting observance of our supervisory material.

Also highlighted is how the IAIS Secretariat and leadership have elevated the already substantial engagement with a broad set of members and stakeholders, including our continued partnership with the Access to Insurance Initiative and Financial Stability Institute (our key implementation partners) and how we have expanded and improved our multiple communications channels.

“2021 serves as an example of how we have come together – Secretariat staff, IAIS members and our many stakeholders – to deliver excellent work with efficiency, solidarity and creativity, making significant progress on our Strategic Plan 2020-2024 and delivering on our dual mission of policyholder protection and contributing to the maintenance of global financial stability.”

A new format

The IAIS Year in Review is a new format replacing the former Annual Report. The editorial content and reporting for 2021 has been decoupled from the financials, providing a more timely overview of the activities of the Association. The 2021 Financials will be released separately, following approval at the AGM in November 2022.

Key strategic themes

We are operating in an environment in which the key risks and trends impacting the insurance sector are increasingly global in nature and the forum that the IAIS provides for global cooperation and coordination is more important than ever. The Year in Review provides a consolidated overview of the work delivered and ambitious agenda related to our key strategic themes of technological innovation; cyber risk; conduct and culture; climate risk; diversity, equity and inclusion; and financial inclusion and sustainable economic development.

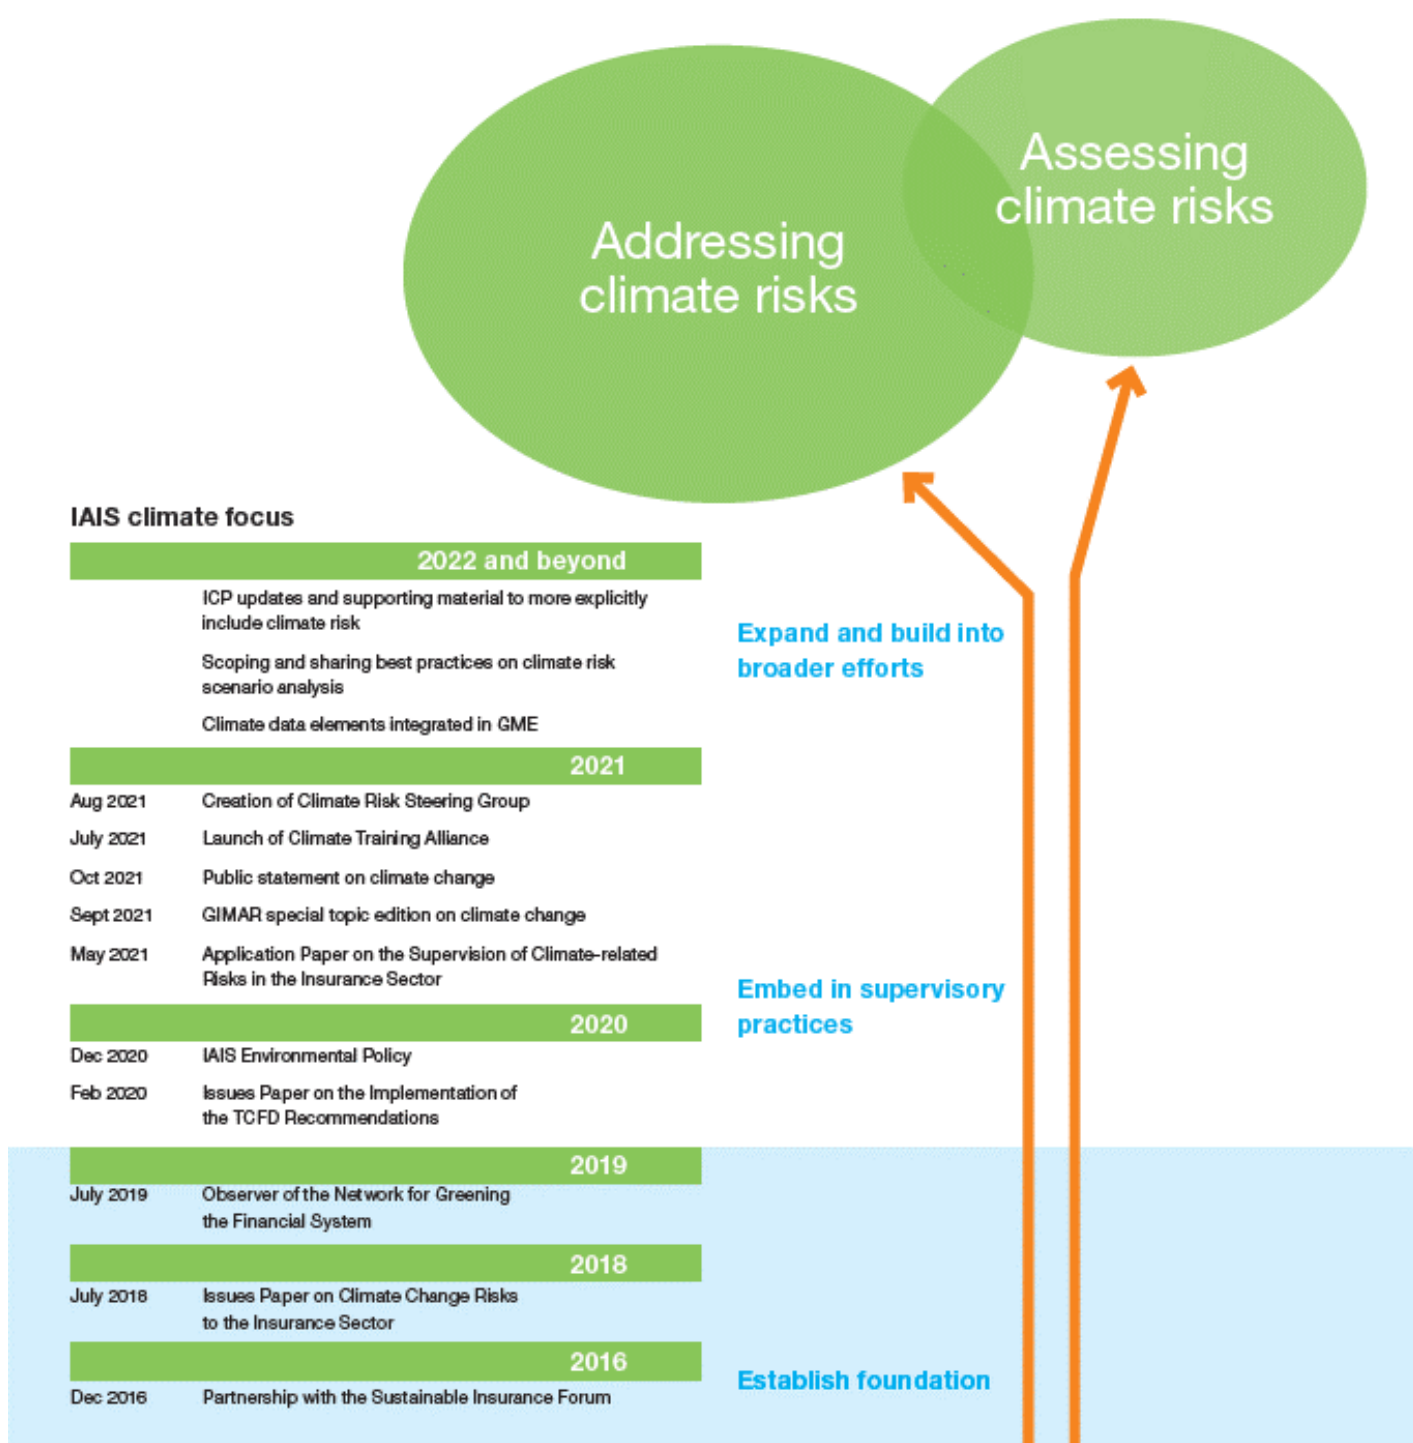

Year in Review 2021

Climate in focus

Given the risks posed by climate change, the IAIS committed in 2021 to significantly increase its focus on this issue. Insurance supervisors globally have stated the need for insurers to integrate climate risks into governance and enterprise risk management frameworks and have highlighted the importance of public disclosure of material climate-related risks. The IAIS continued to demonstrate its leadership on this topic through a multitude of activities highlighted throughout the report and a new graphic illustrates the full extent of our work in this area. In the Annex, the IAIS also reports on progress towards achieving goals set forth in the IAIS Environmental Policy.

New IAIS MMoU Signatories – the Centrale Bank van Aruba and the Massachusetts Division of Insurance

The Centrale Bank van Aruba (CBA) and the Massachusetts Division of Insurance (MA) have become members of the IAIS Multilateral Memorandum of Understanding (MMoU) – our international supervisory cooperation and information exchange agreement.

“We are pleased to welcome Aruba and Massachusetts as signatories to the MMoU”, said Dr Vicky Saporta, Chair of the IAIS Executive Committee. “As we have experienced over the past two years of social and economic challenges, there are enormous benefits to the global insurance sector when supervisors are able to cooperate quickly and effectively across jurisdictions. The MMoU is an essential regulatory tool for supervisors to foster safer and more stable insurance markets”.

The IAIS MMoU provides a global framework of compliance and confidentiality to allow for open cooperation and exchange between insurance supervisors.

To become a signatory to the MMoU, the CBA and MA have undergone rigorous assessments of their professional secrecy regimes, conducted by validation teams made up of IAIS members. This will further enhance the financial stability and sound supervision of cross-border insurance operations for the benefit and protection of consumers.

Since the first jurisdiction was admitted in June 2009, the number of signatories has grown significantly, and currently represents three-quarters of global gross written premiums. A complete list of international signatories and a copy of the IAIS MMoU can be found on the IAIS website by clicking here.

For more information contact Miho Chen at miho.chen@bis.org.

The NAIC organised a signing ceremony for the MA at the NAIC International Insurance Forum on 13 May in Washington DC. Vicky Saporta, Director of Financial Policy of Prudential Regulation Authority and Chair of the IAIS Executive Committee, and Gary Anderson, Commissioner of the Massachusetts Division of Insurance and Chair of the IAIS Policy Development Committee, participated in the signing ceremony.

World Day for Cultural Diversity for Dialogue and Development | 21 May

The IAIS recently surveyed our members for insights to help enhance DE&I at the IAIS. Questions included:

- What are our members' own DE&I strategies and focuses?
- What should be the priority for the IAIS when focusing on our own DE&I?
- What should the IAIS do to enhance DE&I in our governance and processes?

Visit our website to learn more about our DE&I activities.

CULTURE

The IAIS celebrates Pride Month

The IAIS is committed to diversity, equity and inclusion, including diversity of gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression. While we are in the early stages, we aim to promote and facilitate the efforts of our members in advancing DE&I in their organisations and in the global insurance sector. During the month of June, the IAIS will use a logo reflecting the pride rainbow.

Event Spotlight

NAIC International Insurance Forum | Washington DC, United States| 12-13 May

On 12-13 May, IAIS Executive Committee Chair Vicky Saporta and Deputy Secretary General Romain Paserot joined US and international colleagues, including many IAIS members, in person at the flagship international event of the US National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC). The two-day event explored key developments in the insurance sector and the evolution of insurance regulation around the globe. The agenda covered a wide range of emerging risks and trends with themes that echo the IAIS Roadmap priorities.

Vicky Saporta delivered a keynote on day two of the event, reflecting on the continuously changing risk landscape and the importance of a robust global supervisory framework to respond to these risks, given their global nature.

The importance of supervisory cooperation and collaboration was also a key theme, with Vicky noting that working together after the financial crisis created bonds in the international community that continue to get stronger and have aided the response to the pandemic and other challenges.

Dieter Hendrickx, Chair of the Macprudential Committee, participated in a panel discussion on private-equity ownership of insurance firms. He shared the perspective of the IAIS resulting from the work done as part of the Global Monitoring Exercise, where this theme has been picked up.

Romain Paserot, IAIS Deputy Secretary General, joined a distinguished panel moderated by David Altmaier, Florida Insurance Commissioner (USA) and IAIS Executive Committee Vice Chair, for a supervisor-industry dialogue looking at how the IAIS is delivering on its commitment to standards implementation and assessment and the importance of the IAIS' work on financial inclusion more broadly.

Siham Ramli, from ACAPS (Supervisory Authority of Insurance and Social Welfare Morocco), provided the perspective of an emerging market and developing economy (EMDE) member on the implementation of IAIS standards, including the importance of the Common Framework for the Supervision of Internationally Active Insurance Groups (ComFrame) for a host supervisor. Panellists also explored IAIS efforts and experiences in pivoting to address emerging issues, such as climate risk, cyber, and innovation.

ACLI/IIF Breakfast | Washington DC, United States| 13 May

IAIS Deputy Secretary General Romain Paserot joined the American Council of Life Insurers (ACLI) and the Institute of International Finance (IIF) for a lively breakfast dialogue to discuss IAIS, ACLI and IIF members' priorities regarding the direction of global insurance policy in today's dynamic environment.

Romain delivered remarks reflecting on the current challenges facing the insurance sector and how this raises the need for insurance supervisors to monitor and respond to the heightened macroprudential risks effectively. This was followed by a Q&A session for attendees together with NAIC President, Dean L. Cameron.

FSI-IAIS webinar on insurance supervision: how to bring a virtual and an in-person environment together? | Virtual | 18 May

On 18 May, supervisors from all over the Americas, Africa, Asia-Pacific, Europe and Middle East gathered virtually to reflect on the future of the supervisory landscape post Covid-19. In a period marked by increasing innovation and quicker uptake of digitalisation, the session hosted by the FIS and IAIS addressed the topic of "How to bring a virtual and in-person environment together?" Topics included challenges posed by remote supervision, supervisory planning and striking the right balance between in-person and working from home arrangements.

A presentation by Manuela Zweimueller, IAIS Head of Implementation, and Denise Garcia Ocampo, Senior Advisor at the FSI, on the paper jointly developed by the IAIS and FSI, "Redefining Insurance Supervision for the New Normal", set the scene. The presentation provided an overview of the content, focusing on the challenges and opportunities faced by insurance supervisors as they adapted to the world of the "new normal" drawing on experiences of IAIS members at the outbreak of the pandemic.

The session was structured as a panel and was moderated by Tony Chan, Associate Director (Policy and Development Division), Insurance Authority (IA) of China, Hong Kong and IAIS Implementation Assessment Committee Vice-Chair. Tony was joined on the panel by supervisors from Belize, South Africa and Switzerland.

Alma Gomez, Supervisor of Insurance – International Insurance & Pensions, Office of the Supervisor of Insurance & Private Pensions (Belize), shared Belize's experience with remote supervision during the pandemic, and reflected on the challenges in terms of resourcing and infrastructure as well as reliability of virtual on-site assessments, data security and the implementation of electronic signature.

Sharon Sikhosana, Divisional Head, South African Reserve Bank Prudential Authority, touched on the challenges that virtual meetings pose for supervisory judgement and provided insight on the monitoring of cyber risk and measures put in place to safeguard the operational resilience of insurers.

Andreas Widmer, International Relations – Insurance Division, Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority, provided an overview of the Swiss experience, which leveraged on the digitalisation of internal processes prior to the pandemic. He indicated that while there are challenges to virtual on-site assessments, if there is an adequate set-up and clear guidance and rules, there are also gains such as enabling more people to join the meetings without a significant impact on budgets and flexibility to arrange inspections. Andreas also shared FINMA's experience in balancing in-person and working from home arrangements while maintaining team cohesion.

This webinar adds to the many joint IAIS and FSI initiatives to facilitate peer exchanges and the understanding of supervisory issues, in line with the IAIS' High-Level Goal (HLG) 3 on Supervisory practices.

Forum Updates

Forums provide an ongoing and flexible platform for technical experts to share insights and discuss developments in a specific area relevant for insurance supervision and regulation, including but not limited to supervisory practices, cross-cutting topics and emerging trends.

RECENT

Retirement Income and Pensions Forum | Virtual | 24 May

The RIPF welcomed a number of speakers to discuss two topics of relevance for insurance supervisors that regulate insurers that sell retirement income and pensions products.

The first discussion considered how a number of different economic factors influence the pension product landscape, including the changing monetary policy environment, inflationary pressures and credit risks. At the same time, in some markets, pension providers face pressures caused by withdrawals triggered by policies agreed in the pandemic. All of these factors will impact future pensions income and it is important for supervisors to understand the extent to which these issues will affect consumers.

The discussion on financial literacy for pensions considered the extent to which consumers understand their pension and retirement needs and expected income and what steps supervisors can take to help ensure consumers are financially literate.

For more information contact Joe Perry at joe.perry@bis.org.

FinTech Forum | Virtual | 11 May

The FinTech Forum Member workshop was held on 11 May 2022. Covering three topics, the co-chairs of the various FinTech Forum subgroups provided presentations and took questions.

The first topic was Application Programming Interfaces and Open Data. Co-Chairs Andres Lehtmetts (EIOPA) and Joyce Zeng (UK FCA) explained the definition of open insurance, the development status of open insurance, the main business models and various use cases.

The second topic was Distributed Ledger Technologies (DLTs) and blockchain. Co-Chairs Denise Garcia (BIS FSI) and Todd Coslow (US FRB) first defined DLTs and blockchain, then presented applications across the insurance value chain and B3i concepts and issues for supervisory consideration.

The third topic was artificial intelligence, machine learning and the use and governance of data. Co-Chairs Nick Silk (UK PRA) and Laurent Dupont (France, ACPR) explained the subgroup's workplan and presented in-depth content on data, model risk management and governance, and conduct risk (bias and discrimination).

UPCOMING

Financial Crime Forum | Virtual | 2 June

Pursuant to the 2022-2023 Roadmap, the Financial Crime Task Force (FCTF) was transitioned into the Financial Crime Forum (FCF) earlier this year. The FCF provides an ongoing and flexible platform for subject matter experts from insurance supervisory authorities to share insights and discuss developments in the areas of countering money laundering, terrorist financing, proliferation financing and fraud in insurance, with the goal of enabling greater understanding and insight into the impact on insurance supervision. Christopher Brown (Bermuda Monetary Authority), the former FCTF Chair, has been appointed as a Chair of the FCF.

The FCF will have its first meeting on 2 June.

A2ii-IAIS Dialogue – Reflection on the Implementation of IFRS 17 | Virtual | 19 May

On 19 May, the IAIS-A2ii supervisory dialogue took place virtually, with translation in French and in Spanish, to discuss the implementation of the International Financial Reporting Standard (IFRS) 17. The session built on the previous dialogue that addressed the implication of IFRS 17 for insurance supervisors and focused on the preparations for implementation as well as on case studies presented by supervisors who have successfully implemented the standard.

The session kicked off with an introduction by Manuela Zweimueller, IAIS Head of Implementation and Assessment, who highlighted the IAIS initiatives to support implementation of IFRS 17, including the work conducted by the IAIS' Accounting and Auditing Working Group, sharing of supervisory practices and member surveys. Manuela also touched on the elements of optionality, jurisdiction-specific modifications to the regulatory process and opportunities for further study.

This was followed by a presentation by Peter Windsor, Senior Financial Sector Expert at the International Monetary Fund, who discussed key supervisory issues and good practices around the implementation of IFRS 17 ahead of the effective implementation date for insurers on 1 January 2023. Furthermore, he recommended supervisors undertake an impact assessment of the implementation of this standard in their jurisdictions and emphasised the necessity of a dedicated team to lead the implementation as well as the importance of engaging with the industry and other supervisors.

Finally, supervisors presented case studies based on their experience implementing this standard. In the morning session, Jun Oh and Leron Kwong from the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA), discussed APRA's approach to implementing IFRS 17 and shared a case study on reporting for life contracts that share profits. In the afternoon session, David Correia from the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (Canada), shared OSFI's perspective, with a focus on the changes to OSFI's supervisory framework, capacity building strategy for the transition as well as challenges in the transition. Lastly, Zine Mshengu shared the South African Reserve Bank Prudential Authority's positive experience in engaging with industry and stakeholders and the role of the supervisor in the implementation of this standard.

IAIS-FSI WEBINAR ON INSURANCE SUPERVISION: HOW TO BRING A VIRTUAL AND AN IN-PERSON ENVIRONMENT TOGETHER? | VIRTUAL | 18 MAY

The FSI-IAIS Global webinar on insurance supervision took place on 18 May. For more information on this event, please see page 9.

FSI Insights

The FSI recently published FSI Insights on policy implementation No 42 Diversity and inclusion – embracing the true colours in financial supervision.

Sound diversity and inclusion (D&I) practices by financial institutions can support the core prudential objective of promoting the safety and soundness of the financial sector. While there has been noticeable progress in improving firms' D&I, especially in the area of gender, the pace needs to accelerate and the scope to be broadened to other dimensions.

In this paper, authors Nompumelelo Simelane (Central Bank of Eswatini) and Jeffery Yong (Bank for International Settlements) examine emerging regulatory approaches to D&I practices of financial institutions covering corporate governance, conduct of business and disclosure. They observed different focus or aspects of emphasis in the different D&I regulatory approaches.

International standards and guidance on D&I might be helpful to prompt progress in improving the quality of corporate governance of regulated financial institutions, thus enhancing the safety and soundness of firms and the financial sector. Nevertheless, it should also be acknowledged that D&I is not a silver bullet to address corporate governance deficiencies in firms.

The FSI presented the paper at recent meetings of the IAIS Governance Working Group and Market Conduct Working Group.

Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii) Report

III-LAB TEAMS PITCH THEIR INITIAL PROTOTYPES TO EXPERT PANEL | 3-4 MAY

Since mid-March, inclusive insurance innovation lab (iii-lab) country teams from Costa Rica, Grenada, Zambia and Zimbabwe have been working on their initial prototypes aimed at increasing resilience against climate risks in their jurisdictions.

On 3 and 4 May, the teams pitched their prototypes to a panel of experts: Rachel Field (R.K. FIELD, LLC), Hannah Grant (Access to Insurance Initiative), Agrotosh Mookerjee (Risk Shield), Elias Omondi (FSD Africa) and Shilpi Shastri (Winclusivity). Building on constructive feedback and suggestions by the panel members, the teams are now moving forward with the development of their prototypes.

- Costa Rica is working on a climate tool called Fu-Turismo that aims at building awareness of climate change in the tourism sector while at the same time promoting risk reduction and coverage solutions.
- Grenada's prototype, The Grenada Pan Cooperative Resilience Fund, takes advantage of a strong and well-organised cooperative sector in the country. It is planned to develop a mutual risk pool that provides direct relief to farmers and fisherfolk after a declared climate-related disaster.
- Zambia's prototype focuses on raising awareness of insurance, especially among the most vulnerable in the agricultural sector (youth and women). Their solution looks at engaging with community champions to disseminate relevant information.

- Zimbabwe proposes a bundled product that combines index insurance with other non-financial products and services like agronomic and weather advice. To address low financial education rates, this will be accompanied by a multi-stakeholder awareness campaign.

In terms of next steps, ahead of the implementation phase in June, teams will complete the innovation phase with the development of a prototyping roadmap.

REFLECTION ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF IFRS 17 - SUPERVISORY DIALOGUE | 19 MAY

On 19 May, the A2ii and the IAIS hosted a Supervisory Dialogue on Reflection on the Implementation of IFRS 17. The session follows on from the dialogue that took place in January 2021 on the same topic (recordings available on Connect.A2ii as a learning resource).

During these sessions, the challenges and progress that have been made ahead of the implementation deadline of January 2023 were discussed by different experts. Peter Windsor, Senior Financial Expert at the International Monetary Fund provided some background on the global developments and most important supervisory issues of IFRS 17, focusing on the implementation challenges EMDE countries face. He strongly encouraged supervisors to engage with the industry about their readiness to implement IFRS17 to determine whether supervisory action needs to be taken.

Following Peter Windsor's presentation, there were case studies presented by two regulatory authorities for each session.

During the morning session, Jun Oh and Leron Kwong from the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) presented their approach and experience implementing this standard in their jurisdiction. They also shared a case study on life contracts that share profits between policyholders and shareholders. This has been challenging for insurers in Australia because of their complexity and the lack of consensus on how IFRS 17 should be applied and still meet the requirements of the Life Insurance Act 1995 under IFRS 17.

During the afternoon session, David Correia from the Office of Superintendent of Financial Institutions of Canada (OSFI) shared OSFI's experience with the topic. Correia presented how the implementation project was organised, the changes made to supervisory framework because of IFRS 17, how the transition was prepared, as well some common concerns regarding training of supervisors, capital volatility and data reporting.

For both sessions, Zine Mshengu from the Prudential Authority within the South African Reserve Bank (SARB) presented SARB's multi-stakeholder approach, for which the interaction with insurers, industry and the tax authority has proven best for implementation of such a process. She also shared the results of a survey conducted with insurers on the implementation actions and challenges they had faced.

During both sessions, the presentations were followed by an active Q&A session moderated by Peter Windsor. The recordings will soon be available on our learning platform for supervisors Connect.A2ii.

THE IMPLICATION OF THE NEW INSURANCE ACT ON MICROINSURANCE UPTAKE IN GHANA | 19 MAY

This Ghana country-workshop was organised by the Microinsurance Network as part of a series of workshops on the countries in the Landscape of Microinsurance. Following a short presentation on the results of the 2021 survey, Hannah Grant, Head of the Access to Insurance Initiative Secretariat moderated a panel discussion on the implications of the new Insurance Act on microinsurance uptake in Ghana. The panel was made up of a broad cross-section of stakeholders from the Ghanaian market with the Deputy Commissioner of the National Insurance Commission, as well as senior representatives from Allianz, BIMA and the Ghanaian Insurance Association.

Overall, feedback on the 2021 Insurance Act was positive. Features such as the 'innovative insurance licence' and 'innovative insurance intermediary licence' were welcomed as providing considerable scope for the introduction of new business models.

Agricultural insurance was also recognised as an area benefiting from the new Act with index insurance included within the regulatory perimeter as well as the establishment of an agricultural fund. Detailed provisions are still to follow in the form of regulations and directives but the positive reactions so far give hope that it should enable access to insurance to significantly more vulnerable Ghanaians.

A2II-RFPI/MEFIN-MIN ASIA REGIONAL DIALOGUE ON "THE ROLE OF INSURANCE AND DATA IN CLOSING THE CLIMATE RISK PROTECTION GAP" | 17 MAY

The virtual Regional Dialogue hosted by the Access to Insurance Initiative (A2ii), the Microinsurance Network \(MiN\), and the GIZ-Regulatory Framework Promotion of Pro-poor Insurance Markets in Asia \(RFPI\) in partnership with the Mutual Exchange Forum on Inclusive Insurance \(MEFIN\) attracted about 60 insurance stakeholders mainly from the Asian region.

The dialogue explored the role that insurance could play in building resilience against climate change and the ever more frequent occurrence of severe natural disasters. The topic is particularly relevant to developing countries in the Asian region where large portions of the population work in the agricultural sector and, according to World Bank data, 90% of the population are unprotected against the impacts of climate change.

The dialogue narrowed in on the topic of availability of good quality data – something that is often cited as a key challenge to the development of climate risk insurance products. Participants heard from Oasis Hub about the increased availability of open source data and about Etherisc's use of smart contracts and blockchain technology, to automate and improve efficiency and speed of the insurance value chain. The recording of the dialogue will be available shortly, please keep an eye on the A2ii website.

NAIC INTERNATIONAL FORUM, EMERGING MARKETS PANEL DISCUSSION ON 'INCREASING MARKET ACCESS AND EDUCATION' | WASHINGTON DC | 12-13 MAY

The US National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) flagship international event took place on 12-13 May. Over the course of the two days, through panel discussions and keynote addresses key developments in the insurance sector and the evolution of insurance regulation around the globe were explored. The sold-out event attracted over 300 people from across the US insurance industry as well as a number of international attendees.

Hannah Grant, Head of the Access to Insurance Initiative joined representatives from Brazilian insurance supervisor (SUSEP), Global Asia Insurance Partnership on the 'Emerging Markets Panel' moderated by Marlene Caride, Commissioner, New Jersey Department of Banking and Insurance. The panel discussed trends and challenges in emerging markets and drew parallels with more developed markets such as the US. The opportunity provided by the global pandemic for raising awareness together with improvements in efficiency as a result of technology were felt to provide hope for the future; however, the low interest rate environment along with the persistent low penetration rates remain a key challenge.

4TH ANNUAL DECENTRALISED INSURANCE CONFERENCE | AMSTERDAM | 21 APRIL

The A2ii participated in the Decentralised Insurance Conference \(D1Conf\) hosted by Etherisc and Nexus Mutual during Devconnect in Amsterdam on 21 April. D1Conf centred on how blockchain technology can be applied in insurance, particularly inclusive insurance. The event bridged interested stakeholders across the insurance and decentralised finance worlds.

Presentations kicked off with the Microinsurance Network introducing the concept of SUAVE in inclusive insurance. This was reinforced by presentations from PULA and Acre Africa, where Acre Africa shared how Etherisc's blockchain platform was deployed in their weather index insurance product in Kenya. The Lemonade Foundation then shared about upcoming advances in the climate risk insurance and blockchain space via the Lemonade Crypto Climate Coalition \(L3C\). The audience also heard about continuing progress in the technical aspects: An interesting idea for regulators was a A43's risk matrix that can quantify and qualify risks facing protocols.

A key question confronting the decentralised insurance community is: How will regulators approach decentralised insurance models? A2ii's Hui Lin Chiew presented on the objectives of insurance regulation, how regulators are responding to innovations, and some grey areas relating to decentralised insurance. Hui Lin was then joined by Timo Bernau from GSK Stockmann in a closing fireside chat hosted by Etherisc's Jan Stockhausen, where further regulatory reservations and possible areas of consensus were considered.

CONDUCT AND CULTURE - SUPERVISORY DIALOGUE

Matters related to conduct and culture are of growing importance to both conduct and prudential supervisors, especially in the context of rapidly changing financial markets driven by innovation, changes in consumer expectations and broader societal changes.

The IAIS defines corporate culture as “the set of norms, values, attitudes and behaviours of an insurer that characterises the way in which the insurer conducts its activities” (IAIS, 2021). How does culture shape firm behaviour in treating vulnerable customers fairly? How can firms see purpose in inclusive insurance approaches?

These and other questions will be addressed on 21 July, when the A2ii together with the IAIS will host a Supervisory Dialogue on Conduct and Culture.

Lauren Eckermann from the IAIS will be presenting the Issues Paper on Insurer Culture, published in November 2021.

The presentation will be followed by a Panel discussion moderated by Charlotte Cross (Chair IAIS Market Conduct Working Group and Financial Conduct Authority UK) where she along with two other supervisors will be sharing supervisory examples on the topic.

This webinar will be supervisors only and will be taking place at 10:00 CET (with French interpretation), and at 16:00 CET (with Spanish interpretation).
