Public background session

Consultation recap

Building on a solid foundation of stakeholder engagement

- Stakeholder engagement is an integral part of what we do as a standard setter.
- The IAIS seeks to engage with a diverse range of stakeholders to ensure equal access to the IAIS and that conflicts of interest are avoided.
- Effective stakeholder engagement should:
 - Ensure that stakeholders are properly consulted in the development of IAIS policy and that the opportunity for timely, substantive and high-quality contributions from stakeholders is maximised; and
 - Recognise that effective stakeholder engagement can bring valuable information to the design and implementation of successful policy solutions and further inform decision making.

Stakeholders

The IAIS defines “stakeholders” as “all groups and individuals who have an interest in insurance supervision and regulation or who are affected by the activities of the IAIS and shall be interpreted as broadly as possible.”

Four principles of stakeholder engagement

Diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) – the IAIS will seek to engage with all relevant and interested stakeholders to reflect the geographic and market diversity of its members.

Transparency – the IAIS is committed to operating in an open and transparent manner.

Equal access – the IAIS will seek to ensure equal access for those groups that wish to engage but that have limited resources to do so.

Avoid conflicts – the IAIS will seek at all times to avoid any conflicts of interest.

An aerial photograph of a city, likely Shanghai, showing a dense cluster of buildings. A prominent skyscraper, the Shanghai Tower, stands out with its distinctive twisted, tapering design. The city is partially obscured by a thick layer of white clouds or fog, creating a dramatic, ethereal atmosphere. The right side of the image is a solid blue triangle that serves as a background for the text.
